1. BACKGROUND

Titlow Pump Station (TPS), originally constructed in 1961 adjacent to Titlow Park, has undergone several upgrades over the decades to support growing service demands. In 1985, the station's two original pumps were replaced, and a third pump was added, prompting modifications to the motor control center (MCC) to accommodate the expansion. Around 2003, a 125 kW standby generator and automatic transfer switch (ATS) were installed to provide backup power to pumps 1 and 3. Subsequent improvements included a two-phase replacement of the force main in 2006 and 2015.

Today, TPS has a firm pumping capacity of 2.8 million gallons per day (mgd), utilizing vertical close-coupled, non-clog style pumps housed in the dry well. The lower level of the dry well contains the pumps, while the ground floor holds the electrical equipment. The station also has a wet well, HVAC system, seal water booster system, bypass and overflow outlet to the storm system, a 480VAC MCC with full voltage non-reversing starters, programmable logic controller (PLC) control panel, radio communications, a monorail, and a standby generator. The MCC integrates the PLC control panel and operator interface within a dedicated section.

Much of TPS's critical equipment has reached or exceeded its expected service life of 20 to 30 years. The MCC, installed during the original 1961 construction, is now 64 years old, and the instrumentation and control systems, installed in 2006, no longer meet current City standards. Since replacement of this critical equipment will require a temporary bypass pumping system, the project scope includes more extensive upgrades, such as various mechanical components and HVAC systems. Significant upgrades to the station are due to ensure continued reliable service.
